Masonic Service

On Sunday evening, brothers of Strathmore, No. 10, A.F. & A.M. to the number of about forty, gathered at St. Michaels and All Angels Church, where a special service was presided by Rev. Henry Montgomery. The service was held in the open air in the grounds of the church, and in addition to the Masonic Brethren, there was a large attendance of the general public.

Rev. Montgomery dealt largely in his address with the close connection that exists between Masonry and the church, and which had been exemplified in the work of the men who instigated the Grand Lodge of England in 1717. No man can be a good Mason without being a follower of the teachings of God. He deplored the tendencies that existed nowadays to dispense with moral and the neglect of church going that existed.

Special music was rendered by a solo, of clear during the services.

OWED THEIR BOARD

Two local young men left Strathmore for Spokane on Wednesday last, but did not get any further than Calgary, being brought back by the Provincial Police on account of an unpaid board bill in a local restaurant. They were lodged in the police cells, but some friends having made the amount owing something like $150, they were released.

Games

Last weekend was an unfortunate one for the Strathmore baseball team, for they lost their games to the Bowmen, and resulted in the Strathmore team showing some of their regular team, but all the same would not have lost the game but for a number of costly errors in the latter half. Indeed, the first half of the game was a very close one, and scope was given to the locals, but Brown was stronger after that, and was 3 up 3 down, and both limited and outfielded the game, so that the Strathmore team got eleven runs in the last four innings.

Calgary Strathmore I

Tom umbus (Calgary) was a much better game to watch, though the visitors had clearly the best of it, though the Strathmore boys hit up fairly, yet the fine teamwork of the visitors paid off, and the game was won by them on Saturday.

A Great Institution

During the last week of May some forty or fifty clergymen of Saskatchewan newspapers assembled at the University of Saskatchewan for their fifth annual convention and second annual short course for editors. For several days these clergymen, who are mostly young men living in an University atmosphere, not only holding their meetings with the college walls, but sleeping and eating in one of the student residence buildings, have been giving of their disposal all the time and energy of this institution of higher education.

What this means to the newspaper men would be difficult to overestimate, and that the editors appreciate the opportunities thus afforded is well known. The attendance this year two and one-half times larger than a year ago. The assistance and encouragement thus given the press of Saskatchewan by the provincial government has had a markedly beneficial effect as the years pass in the raising of the standard of journalism in the west.

Reciprocal benefits must likewise unquestionably accrue to the University by the increased interest shown and understanding of the great toward that institution. By being brought into close personal touch with the University and learning of its aims and ideals the many students of that institution, the editors are coming to more fully appreciate the really wonderful work it is carrying on and directing in the interests of the people, and they will not be far wrong in expecting that all the efforts of the people that addressees to be obtained through a loyal support of the University.

In the course of a brief address to the editors preliminary to an inspection of the new building plan and equipment, Dean Rutherford of the College of Agriculture, quoted some striking figures as indicating what the education of farmers' sons means to them and to the country. In general terms he said that the decided advantages in other ways which the educated man possesses over the uneducated. He stated that as the result of comprehensive surveys made in the cities of Saskatchewan it had been ascertained that, among farmers possessing equal means in the way of land, farm equipment and capital, the man with an education made greater success than the man lacking such an education.

Of farmers with equal opportunities in every respect, except in the matter of education, the following facts were established:

Those who attended the common school had a labor income for themselves of $18,000 per annum. Those who attended high school had a labor income of $26,000. Those who attended the college had a labor income of $35,000.

A somewhat similar survey of Dundas County, Ontario, had revealed the fact that out of 100 farmers surveyed, 98 percent had no education except that obtained in the elementary school, notwithstanding the fact that the average high school in the county, thus demonstrating the regrettable fact that the boys who attended high school had not gone back to the farms.

It is to be noted that the college-educated boy makes such a greater success of farming than the one who lacks such training was revealed to the editors as they made their tour of inspection of the University. On one part of the University farm various experiments were being carried on to demonstrate the value of crop rotation, and the best crops to follow each other. Other experiments had as their object the ascertaining of the most effective method of getting away of the soil, which in the case of heavy losses, annually when high prairie winds prevail. Elsewhere demonstrations were carried on to show the best methods of sowing, and the best way to breed in the grain, and the nature of the crops which should be grown in connection with these types. In the well equipped farm machinery building almost every form of machinery and out-of-the-way farm machinery were in evidence, where the students were trained in the handling and repair of machinery with a view to securing maximum results from the same, especially through the agency of the British Empire Train, which was standing on the university grounds preparatory to starting out on its tour of the province, there was revealed the practical knowledge of the value of which the university is carrying to the people far and wide the lessons learned as a result of the research work carried on at the university.

The University of Saskatchewan is unique in that it is the only university that it embraces within the scope of its activities, not merely the arts and sciences, but everything that closely touches the lives and businesses of all classes of people, paying particular attention to the agriculture of the west, agriculture, agricultural instruction is quite separate and distinct from the universities.

The city of Saskatoon, the capital of Saskatchewan, containing of 16,000 acres, is beautifully located on the banks of the Saskatchewan River, overlooking the city of Saskatoon. The magnificent buildings which are scattered over the hillside, one mile away, and year by year additional buildings are erected. Over $2,000,000 has already been expended, and the ultimate plans call for the erection of a score or more handsome buildings, the cost of which may run into millions of dollars.

CONSTIPATED CHILDREN

Children who suffer from constipation, indigestion or any of the other ailments due to a clogged condition of the bowels, will profit greatly from the use of Bayer's Cough Tablets. The Tablets are a mild but strong laxative which can always be depended upon to regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. Dr. J. M. Bontou, Lake Brome, N.B., writes: "I am pleased to state that Baby's Own Cough Tablets were the only medicine my wife used when my baby was suffering from constipation." The Tablets are sold by all druggists and dealers at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The total value of Manitoba's 1919 wheat crop is estimated at $118,850,000. Last year the province had 39,150,000 acres sown to wheat and the latest returns given show an average yield of 17 bushels to the acre.

Maximum Egg Production

Selecting Eggs for Hens For Their Laying Ability

You keep "just a few hens," and do they roost at a large laying nests in nests of their own selection?

Do you "keep hens"—breed-to-lay hens, and are you realizing the maximum in egg production from them?

Once in a while we find a farm doing well, and we are asked to advise them how to keep eggs for production. The owner believes in giving the flock good and abundant feed, but puts no faith in the study of laying types and the keeping of trapdoor records. Soon, however, he finds that the flock is not producing sufficient eggs for breakfast every morning, he is satisfied.

But he is a foolish man. Look at his flock—how large—how is it advancing because of the great improvement in breeding stock? If good cocks will produce good offspring with the ability to produce large quantities of milk, doesn't it stand to reason that hens should also produce a large percentage of their offspring with the laying ability stamped on them?

It is no secret to any one using expensive poultry feed and not receiving eggs to sell. And it certainly is a great satisfaction to keep hens that pay their board and leave a profit for the owners after the board is paid.

Dairymen know what testing has meant to them. Now poultry men are finding what the test means determining poultry profits.

Empire Building by Air

In the course of one year the ends of the British Empire have been reached by aircraft from England, the Atlantic has been spanned, and the journey over five thousand miles from Cairo to the Capital has been accomplished. Twenty-five years ago and more it was the dream of Cecil Rhodes to build a railway from Cape Town to Cairo—the geography preventing. The project has at long last realized his dream. And dreams not only his. To reach Cairo by air, one passes over the Indian Sea, and the airway to India lies above Palestine, where Isiah saw the vision of the Son of Man. Seraphim and through Assyria, when winged creatures adorn the palaces.

Crop Reports prepared by the statistics branch of the Saskatchewan department of Agriculture make satisfactory reading, and conditions indicate that the 1920 crop has got off to a good start, and given favorable weather, should result in a good yield. Damage by high winds varies from zero to 10 percent. The greatest damage from insects having occurred in the central and northern districts. In practically all cases where wheat was blown out, it is being reseeded to oats and fax.

Many large districts, however, received their first rains in the middle of May 25 and 26, and are responsible for this situation.

While grasshoppers are reported to be hatching out in the southeast and southern districts, they have as yet done no damage. They are small at present and in some localities are reported thick.

Japanese Fishermen Gaining Big Hold

Getting a Corner on B.C. Salmon Fisheries According to Statement

That the Japanese fishermen are gaining much too strong a hold on the salmon fishing industry in British Columbia was the statement made by Lieut.-Col. Peck, V.C., to the parliamentary committee on pensions and re-establishment. Last year there were 417 Japanese in the fisheries against 417 native-born Canadians. The Japanese "jigged" their naturalization papers back and forth and so overcame the law which required naturalization before entry into the country. Col. Peck declared that 50,000 more returned men had gone to British Columbia than the total number which were overseas from that province.

William Foran, secretary of the civil service commission, said that of 60,000 civil servants, 25,456 were returned men, but only 7,600 were home.

The government did not accept the recommendation.

New Settlers for Canada

First Contingent of the British-Canadian Farmers Land Syndicate

Syndicate

The tide of emigration that is now passing through Montreal to the Canadian West included the other day a sturdy company of young English and Scottish farmers, forming the first contingent of the British-Canadian Farmers Land Syndicate, an overseas concern which has secured large tracts of land in what is called the Spirit River settlement colony in Alberta. The West each acre is assigned 160 acres of land, and the original tract of land with the option of adding another 160 acres when the first tract has been improved. The district they were going to is situated about 300 miles northwest of Edmonton.

After the Sea Lions

B. C. Fishermen Say One Will Eat 50 Pounds of Fish

A Day

Large numbers of sea lions on the British Columbia coast, which destroy annually vast quantities of food fish may be slaughtered and their hides placed on the market for leather and oil, and their meat for fertilizer. The proposal, first put forward by Premier Oliver, has the approval of many experienced fishermen. One Prince Rupert fisherman, who has killed three sea lions, has told me that he had killed 100 on the Queen Charlotte Islands in two days. The sea-lions, it is said, weigh from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds. The hides are nearly inch in thickness and make a tough leather. They are used in making shoes and saddles. Fishermen declare that a sea-lion will eat fifty lbs. of fish a day.

The tallest grass is pampas. It is so tall that a man on horseback often cannot see over it.

You can make almost any man nervous by telling him that a policeman was asking him about him.

Irrigating Root Crop During Dry Weather

(Experimental Farm Notes)

To keep our root crop growing during the dry weather early seedling is a great advantage as the young plants start early and make strong and deeply-penetrating root growth. To encourage this we cultivate early in the season which allows our irrigation water to penetrate deep into the soil. Our irrigations must be carefully so the roots when once established in the soil should not be disturbed. If you could prepare the entire root system, say of the mangold, you would be surprised at the amount of root that is produced. This is the system by which the crop gets its food and moisture and if these are distributed during the hot weather they dry out less rapidly than a dry soil plan again. Also big, overgrown specimens are not desirable as they will drop during the heat of the day and have trouble in recovering and soon become hollow. They center becomes stringy and brittle with age. A well-grown band a mangold that has made steady growth is high in dry matter and will not fall down so easily. The rule for the root crop is: uniform moisture and the best of cultivation, during the early stages, frequent light irrigations with shallow cultivations following such irrigation at the earliest possible moment the soil is in condition. This very simple manner judges for himself the rule being that as soon as the soil crumbles without sticking in hands the cultivator should be used.

Roots that have not received a check during the early stages may remain upright during the cooler weather later on than roots that have been toughened to excessive drying out.

The fitting of the soil helps very materially in the early stages and the winter when manure is most plentiful on the average farm, at the rate of five to ten tons per acre, due it in as early as possible in the spring, plough and cultivate well as a firm seed bed helps the germination of the seeds.

Superintendent, Experimental Station, Summerland, B. C.

PAY CASH IF POSSIBLE

It may not be generally known but it is a fact that at the present time the wholesalers and jobbers are unable to get anything like their usual amount of credit from the small farmer in business. This in turn will affect on the retailer throughout the country who has to get credit from the wholesaler. This is necessitating a certain amount of tightening up of money on the part of both the wholesaler and retailer. The public can save the situation by keeping their accounts paid up and paying cash whenever possible.

WHAT A GOOD BAND MEANS TO A TOWN

In speaking about bands and town bands in particular, we sometimes hear people carelessly say, "What is a band to a town?" Well, it is a fact that the band is the life of the town, which makes the remark. You may have reason to allow the silly question to go unanswered. But regarding the remark more seriously, let us say that a good band is one of the greatest things in town or community can possess. It is one of the best advertisements a town can have. Emerson says something about the world making a better place, a good band makes all the roads better, and town beaten paths, even though the town's other attractions be not enormous, every merchant is benefited by a good band. Many people come to town to attend the various entertainments and they combine shopping with this pleasure. The promoters of business and musical enterprises always have the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts deserve success, and that no time will be successful, because they have a first-class band to lead the parade and attract the crowd. A band composed of able players is a power of attraction to the town or section of the country, it attracts the public to a high class of music, and does it right at your door, too. Every enterprising citizen will boost the band wherever he goes. —Canadian Bandsman and Orchestra Journal.

There will be no meeting of Strathmore I.O.O.F. tomorrow evening, owing to the fact that on Thursday July 15 a joint installation of Strathmore, Namaqua, and Langdon lodges will be held here. District Deputy Grand Master Ross, of Calgary, with Grand Master of Namaqua, Calvary Lodge, will perform the ceremony. Every Oddfellow in the district is urged to respond to attend.

Watson Crawford has left this local branch of the Union Bank to take up a position with the staff of the Bassano branch of his same bank. Mr. Kersten, from Bassano and formerly of Strathmore, is officiating in his stead at present here.

Mr. H. Herrington, of Calgary, is at present assisting Mr. Lodwell of the Crown Lumber Co. branch.

Owing to the lateness of the train from Calgary on Saturday, there was no movie show, much to the disappointment of a large number who were waiting to take in the show.

Mr. H. Herrington, of Calgary, is at present assisting Mr. Lodwell of the Crown Lumber Co. branch.

The case which attracted so much local interest last week is an illustration of foolishness of allowing single young men to get extended credit. If a single man cannot pay his way these days, he must be getting more credit than is good for him.

Chautauqua comes here this year, we understand, from August 5th to 11th. It is about time that preparations were being made to pack up the sale of tickets.

The project of having a events day here this summer has been mooted.

There certainly ought to be something of that sort done, and if it was taken up it would do well.

"Well," he addressed her, "it seems as though I am to have trouble with all my children this morning, Spray-coat. First I find Lulu trying to lure a nesting grouse, and now I find you bent on disorganizing the whole department of my royal-blue silvery array, setting such an example to your puppies. I'm ashamed of you! Don't you get the very best of food, and an abundance of it? I've a good mind to take a stick to you, Mrs. Redcap, but I'll just let you off with a duck. I'll certainly do it. Now, you're good or I'll send you away to the man who offered me five thousand dollars for you. Being of royal birth I can't claim up as I could, but I'm good for you, and the other measures with you if you try to destroy the discipline of Hardwood's Retreat. Now then, come along to the enclosure, and you'll be lucky if it isn't bread and water for you for two days to come."

The young foxes were rolling over each other in play, growling and scratching as they romped, all except the small reddish-grey of the cubs, when on the other side, a little apart from the others, his sharp ears pricked forward, his mouth half open in a grin of pleasure.

The woodsmen stoned down and picked up the largest of the puppies, —a pure white grey, who was a good deal larger than the others— and turned away up the path. But the mother, her eyes still on the feeding duck, paid not the slightest heed and made no move to follow him.

"So here," he laughed, "you like this fine fellow, not the favorite, eh? Well, we'll see!" And the old mother lout doesn't hold good. I guess we know most of your affection's been given to Mr. Spray-coat, don't you? Sighs little Spray-coat.

He made a grab for the rump of the litter, but foxie evaded his clutch and ran whimpering to her mother. She reached down and licked his wistful feet, then followed him back to the nest when the male reached under her long hair and pulled the whimpering puppys forth.

"I guess you'll come now," he observed as he tucked the baby fox beneath his arm.

With a little whine of disappointment the mother fox followed him, her wake the four other puppies game bolling and sprawling.

Not until he was some distance from the nest did he take the baby fox beside his mother. He waited until assured that the quenched spray-coat would seek her romping field of the uplands, then he sought a sheltered spot under a large, spreading tree on the greenish face of the forest.

In a grove of butter-nut trees stood a roomy cabin built of long tamarack timbers, straight-grained and hewed to take on the roof. Its eaves were thick and broad, and surmounted to fit snugly end to end. Its windows were covered with oiled buckskin, strung thus as parchment, to admit the light. Its big doors had been cut from single blocks of oak. A smaller cabin, built much after the same style, stood a little distance from it.

The larger cabin enclosed a wide lawn surrounded which, and nestled in a little forest, stood all manner of beautiful hardwood trees. The beech, with sweeping branches, sturdy vindictive looking oak trees, tall birches that seemed to drown sunlight under their falling leaves, chestnut and butternut trees, with here and there a gnarled, gachy-looking scrub oak that seemed to rail at Providence for not giving it the size and strength of its neighbors.

The place was Hardwood's Retreat. The man had built the grand cabin with his own hands, largely. Every tree in that grove was dear to him. He knew all the hardwoods, well, indeed; close and intimate association with them, all the time he caused himself to look upon them as friends.

Sometimes he laughed at himself for being so foolish as to believe he understood their language. He took that talk history study, and all that sort of thing, and caused himself to look upon them as friends.

Whenever a storm was brewing, that old tree always shook its branches and sent him word. "Swee-swoosh—swoosh—a-woosh," it would whisper in tones of a voice like a sea of robin's-egg blue, and the sun would be obscured by the canopy like the spokes of a giant wheel, and not a cloud was anywhere to be seen. The tree would rock and roll, pick up its load, and then lay it down again, sending its agitated message down to him; and he would shap his rough bark and say, "All right, old friend, I'll gather up my family."

He had been gathering up of that family when he was very easy. That foxy little bird was taken from him, sunny beds among the hazel copes, the racoons did their best to hide from him, the fawns looked their protest at him with wistful eyes, and the birds were all gone. "Mother," he would croak and otherwise protest at taking his five kittens from the warm sunlight into the dark kennel.

But the man's way was one that must be observed, since he was United States citizen, the biggest warship ever record—a monster battle cruiser 1,600 feet long, 104 feet beam, and of 60,000 tons displacement. Twenty-one-inch guns will constitute its main armament and its speed will be over ten miles per hour.

The old history never lied. Mid-afternoon would mark a blinding of the skies and a freshening breeze from the north. In a few moments the world would fade to a fleecy archway of faint purple, and above the horizon would spread a deep, breathless lavender for one deep, breathless pause for one deep, breathless pause for one deep, breathless pause for the first look.

Wild storms were born with, crashing thunder and hurtling drags as the barbed clouds sweeping from (or Orionto Lake met those above) Talmont's camp, an opposing army, another, still more numerous, would fade to a fleecy archway of faint purple, and above the horizon would spread a deep, breathless lavender for one deep, breathless pause for one deep, breathless pause for the first look.

This morning as he passed up the path to the nest, there was no sign of life in the air. It was cool and sweet with the scent of spruce. The skies swam with the floral-blooming promise of a perfect day and fast, far down through the fir-wood, thickets, would lead a person up miles upon miles, the upland, sounded the voices of happy, mating things.

As he passed beneath the old history he suddenly heard a soft, low, mewling sound.

"The mewl sound down at the dog," the man said, "is a clear, high, thin, 'swoosh—swoosh—swoosh,'"—and he saw a little tremor run through the long reaching arms spread outward and upward through the deep purple.

"So here," he laughed, "you like this fine fellow, not the favorite, eh? Well, we'll see!" And the old mother lout doesn't hold good. I guess we know most of your affection's been given to Mr. Spray-coat, don't you? Sighs little Spray-coat.

"Well, Willow, the Wisp," laughed the man, drawing her towards him. "How come that you are abroad so early? I have been wondering why you have been staying away from the Retreat so long. Do you know you have not been over for nearly a week?"

The Virtue That Begins Away From Home

(as illustrated by an American sample of missionary zeal)

In Europe hours of darkest night

That shouts the faith and song and cheer

I long to share the morning light

Diffused in yonder hemisphere;

There all is joy and radiance (but

As we are in Eden first the sun rises)

Thanks to the Power that holds in trust

That legacy of Colmer Monroe's?

But on those so halcyon skies

Chill blasts of disillusion blow

When I observe with pained surprise

The state of things in Mexico;

And "why" I ask, "In Heaven's name

Can't God's own country" (U.S.A.)

go

And, by the right hand none else may claim

Put it across the dirty Doggs!"

Then I reflect: "Tis not so strange;

Some virtues beat high at home;

But others, of superior range,

Prefer to start beyond the foam;

There are who mend the ills at hand;

But those whose aims are even bigger

Seek out a far and savage land

There to convert the godless nigger;

"This chance, no doubt, distracts the

Yank

From sinners at his very door;

No local cure, he feels, can rank

With efforts on a distant shore;

His heart to Sina Fein's gospel wed,

And by its beauty deeply bitten,

He sends his dollars toro to spread

The fear of hell in heathen Britain."

Bob G. Hopkins has concluded a long and successful tour of pasture on the Taylor circuit, and is leaving this week for a visit to the coast on account of his health. Mr. Hopkins has won the regard of all his parishioners and is looked forward to with pleasure. Mr. Gardner, the new minister in charge of the field and his first service in Standard will be on Sunday, July 10th at 3 p.m.

The candidates who have been writing on the Grade VIII Departmental Examination at Standard this week are: Violet Collins, Thelma Crapo, Williars, Rosella Drydale, Margaret Gray, Edith Green, Viola Hill, Peter McCall, Anna Friend and Anna Hauseman. The results of the examination will be announced shortly after the first of August.

The Standard has enrolled a large number of members and great interest is being taken in games on the new court.

Standard people had a chance to view the annual meeting in their annual match of sky when one of the McCall Aero. Co.'s brought S. Hunkin, traveller for the Aultman Taylor Co. over from Rockford about 30 last Thursday evening. A landing was made in the centre of town and the pilot took his plane up again immediately, making for Calgary.

C.F.A. Sunday was fittingly observed as a special service in the Danish Lutheran church in the afternoon. Rev. G. Hopkins gave an inspiring address and special music, including a solo by Mr. D. F. Magowan and a selection by the choir. The service was very well attended.

Grasshopper Menace

Being Successfully Held. Report at Once If Attacked

The emergency steps taken by the government have been to combat the grasshopper plague, which has already done some damage in that district, are having their effect, and it is believed that they are being held, large quantities of poison have been mixed and distributed in the fields affected.

The mixture being used here consists of Paris green, bran, molasses, and lemon, and it is said to be very effective.

Grasshoppers are reported from the towns of Mr. Wootton, near Naauka, and Mr. Lawrie, Municipal Councillor also reports attacks in that district. Every farmer should look out for the grasshopper grub and see that they can be controlled in every direction before they get a chance to become numerous. The Municipality will do everything in their power to assist, and volunteer help can be obtained to spread the poison if it becomes necessary.

Foreign Railways and Rates

During December, 1919, and January, 1920, the British Railways increased rates 20 per cent., their second class mail rates 20 per cent., and their express rates 20 per cent. Both freight and passenger rates already during 1919 had been advanced 20 to 40 per cent.

The passenger rates of the French State Railways were increased by the government and all of which are being operated under government control. The passenger rates were raised during the war and the freight rates 20 to 27 per cent., because of the difficulty of getting labor. It is to be expected proposals for further advances have been under consideration.

The advances in rates on the Austrian railways since pre-war days have been 20 per cent. The increase of 20 per cent made in February 1920, made the total increases about 25 per cent.

In September, 1919, freight and passenger rates in Belgium had been advanced 20 per cent. and in October, 1919, another 20 per cent. Further increases have been made since then.

In December, 1919, freight and passenger rates in the Netherlands were advanced 20 per cent.

Very large advances in rates have been reported in any country have been made in Germany, where, in addition, passenger and freight railways are owned and operated by the government. Repeated advances were made during the war, and thereafter very great advances have been made in the post-war period by the police. The passenger rates have average about 70 per cent higher than pre-war rates and freight rates about 80 per cent higher.

Large advances in rates have also been made in Italy, where the railways which were remote from the seat of hostilities. For example, in December, 1919, the Italian State Railways on the South African Government railroads were advanced 25 per cent. In January, 1920, the rates were advanced 20 per cent in both freight and passenger rates was made in Brazil, and additional increases were proposed. Even in Australia, which was about half way through the war, the government railways have suffered heavy losses and the government has had to make advances in their rates.

The railways of Great Britain were placed under government control at the beginning of the war and are still held by the government. The passenger rates were advanced 20 per cent, while the freight rates were advanced 25 per cent, and extra charges were added to rates which cover the collection and delivery of goods and the cost of fuel as its transportation. In March, 1920, the steamerage charges imposed for the carriage of goods for the period of free time were increased 100 per cent, and the charges for seaborne days 200 per cent.

Craigburn News

Mr. Elder was on a visit to the Youngstown District last week. The prospects in some parts are not so bright as around here.

Margaret Grant gave a birthday party last week. There was a large crowd and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Henry Danforth purchased a Titan tractor last Saturday. After a long day of work he had no time getting his tractor home so he had to wait until Monday morning. He saw the very prompt and diligent way they saw to his requirements after the garages failed to give satisfaction. He says he knows where to go if anything goes wrong with his car or himself.

Doctor Brand of Strathmore was in the district last week. The farmers of this district seem to know there is a veterinarian in Strathmore.

J. B. Johannsen is almost ready to put in the cement foundation for his new house.

Crops Are Fine

Ideal June weather is promoting the growth of the crops throughout the district, and they are coming along fast. Growth has been helped by the many showers that fell in the past two weeks. Winter rye is 60% headed out now, and in places standing over three feet high. Wheat, oats and barley are also well forward, foot crops are making especially good. During the last week the rainfall has been confined to slight showers, but a continuance of the present warm weather will bring along more rain. The soil has a good moisture reserve at present.

Bairtes and Keoma and other districts in the north have had lighter rainfall than from Nightingale south to the river, and farmlands there are making extensive use of irrigation.

The only damage reported is from grass-hoppers, and that has not yet affected the crop in the district materially, and it is hoped that the emergency method being taken will keep down the pest.
